Graduates on the Loose

Marquette Middle School graduates, class of 2004, returned to the Marquette cafeteria on May 21, for the annual alumni breakfast. These high school seniors are quite an accomplished group of students. Belinda

Vuong and Jennifer Farley both obtained National Merit Scholar status. Andy Terrell was named a Washington State Scholar. Tammy Anderson, Colleen Hennessey, Amanda Kilseimer, Andy Terrell and Belinda Vuong received the Washington State Principal's Scholars award. Carlee Gibbons was awarded the Washington State University Regents scholar award. After all is said and done, twelve of the thirty-nine Marquette Middle School graduates finished in the top 10 percentile in their respective high school graduating class. Here is a glimpse of the colleges and universities that they will be attending: Carroll College, Creighton, Gonzaga, Harvard, St. Martin, Seattle University, University of San Diego, University of New Hampshire, Washington State, Whitman, Yakima Valley Community College, and Spokane Falls Community College. Two students will be on an exchange program in Argentina and Turkey and one student will work with America Corps, We congratulate this class for all of their hard work!

Forty- Two students graduate from Marquette Middle School

With the class motto of “On our way”, forty-two Marquette Middle School students graduated and headed off to high school with enthusiasm and wonder. Twenty-six students will be heading to La Salle High School, nine students to Davis High School, three to Eisenhower High School, three to East Valley and one student is undecided as of this publication.

Just what is an Endowment?

We hear a lot today about foundations and their endowments so, we thought we should give a little glimpse of just what endowment means:

An endowment acts like a perpetual savings account that is funded by gifts of cash, stocks and at times real estate. The principle is invested and never spent. The Sister Rebecca Berghoff Foundation invests their funds into an endowment account, giving investments earnings to St. Joseph/Marquette in the form of an annual subsidy, and at times helps fund special projects.

Sister Rebecca's tuition assistance funds are handled in the same way, with the earnings given to SJMMS for tuition assistance to deserving students. How does all of this affect St Joseph Marquette? The larger the endowment is the bigger the subsidy can be to keep tuition affordable. The Sister Rebecca Berghoff Foundation is continually seeking ways to build the endowment. You can help us with our mission by making a donation and restricting it for the endowment or Sister Rebecca's tuition assistance fund.

Update from previous Legend

In the spring issue of the Legend there was an article about Marquette 7th and 8th grade leadership group raising money for care packages that were sent to Iraq for Christmas. Jason McHargue, a helicopter pilot, received one of these packages. He did not know from where it originated or who sent it. You can only imagine how surprised he was to see that it was from the St. Joseph/Marquette School, the school he attended and graduated from in 1989. While on leave, Jason, his mother and sister came for a visit, they toured the campus and commented on all of the changes that have been since he graduated. As a way of saying thank you for the Christmas packages, Jason presented a picture of the helicopter that he flies along with an American flag to Mrs. McAnally (the 7th & 8th grade leadership advisor) and Mr. Pleger.
